Sponsored by the U.S. Attorney's Office, Voices of Youth is a violence prevention project for students in four Northwest Philadelphia High Schools. The project's purpose was to reach out to students who have been affected by violence and to capture their thoughts and ideas on the impact that violence has had on their lives, their families, and their communities. Students from New Media Charter, Imhotep, Hope Charter, and Martin Luther King High Schools worked with Philadelphia's Village of Arts and Humanities and Well Productions to produce two videos which will be shown in their entirety at the film festival. Certificates of Achievement will also be awarded by United States Attorney Zane David Memeger.
